WHAT'S FOR DINNER?

The sign across the front of Viet Wah Superfoods on Martin Luther King Jr. Way almost says it all: "grocery store." In Vietnamese, Tagalog, Khmer, Chinese, English, Lao, Spanish and Amharic. Before there were supermarkets in Southeast Seattle, there were farms including many operated by Italian and Japanese immigrant families. This agricultural heritage continues in today's P-Patch community gardens and the popular Columbia City Farmers Market.

Cultural diversity is reflected in the amazing array of local restaurants, which are often the first businesses established by new immigrants. Cultural traditions of kosher and halal foods, landmark businesses like Borracchini's Bakery and the Oberto Sausage Company, and corner stores that have served the community for over a century are all part of Southeast Seattle's culinary heritage.

MAXAA LAGU CASHAYNAYAA?

Calamadda si gudban ugu taal xagga hore ee dukaanka Viet Wah Superfoods ee Jidka Martin Luther King Jr. Way ayaa moodaa inay soo koobeen odhaadhiid oo dhana: "dukaan cunto" ayaa ku aqaran afafka Fiitnaamiiska, Tagalogiska, Khmer-ka, Shiinaha, Ingiriiska, Lao-da, Isbaanishka iyo Amxaariga. Intaan laga samayn suuqyo casri ah Koonfur Bari Seattle, waxa ka jiray beero ay kujiraan qaar badan oo ay ka shaqeyaan qoysas muhaajiriin Talyaani iyo Jabbaanis ah. Hiddahan beeruhu wuu ka sii dhex socdaa bulshada beerayda P-Patch ee maanta iyo Suuqa caanka ah ee Beeralayda Magaalada Columbia.

Kala duwanaashaha daqameed waxay ka muuqataa bandhigyada layaabka leh ee makhaayadaha cuntada deegaanka, taasoo ah inta badan ganacsiga u horreeya ee ay sameeyaan muhaajiriinta cusubi. Caadooyinka daqameed ee Kosher iyo cuntooyinka xalaasha ah, ganaciyada aadku u muuqada sida Borracchini's Bakery iyo Shirkadda Oberto Sausage iyo tukaanada cishiyaa ee u adeegayey bulshada in kabaxan qarni waxay dhammaan kaqayb yihiin hiddaha cunto karinta Koonfur Bari Seattle.
